NOTABLE PROJECTS

Predicting Shelter Availability in Toronto - Logistic Regression

Team Lead

Toronto, ON

September - November 2024

- Performed research-based logistic regression to predict the availability of shelter at any given night in Toronto based on demographic, environmental, and economic factors, determined through exploratory and correlation analyses. The final model highlighted systemic barriers and achieved moderate predictive success.

Analyzing Popular Music During Economic Recession

Term Project

Toronto, ON

September - December 2024

- Identified trends in music popularity during economic downturns, achieving a 92% accuracy in predicting song popularity during recessions. Utilized datasets from Spotify and Billboard Hot 100 to design and implement decision tree classifiers and K-means clustering models using audio features, TF-IDF, and sentiment analysis of lyrics.
